Scripture Reflection:

Read the Gospel: John 20:19-31

Gospel Summary

Three times in this Gospel passage Jesus says to his disciples, “Peace be with you.” The first time, he appears to the disciples as they huddle behind locked doors for fear of the Jews. The second time, he breathes upon them the Holy Spirit and gives them the power to forgive sins. The third time, Jesus again appears to the disciples as they are gathered behind locked doors. “Peace be with you,” he says to them.

Reflection for Parents

One of the best-loved Catholic prayers is the Prayer of Saint Francis. It begins with the familiar words, “Lord, make me an instrument of your peace.” As you think about your role in the workplace, in your community, and most especially in your home, where are your opportunities to be an instrument of Christ’s peace? Can you offer a word of peace and healing to an upset child, an angry coworker, or a neighbor who has just received difficult news? Can you help end an argument or disagreement with a peaceful word or with a peaceful presence? As you go about your daily work and the routine of family life, echo Jesus’ words in prayer: “Peace be with you.” And join Saint Francis in praying, “Lord, make me an instrument of your peace.”

Bringing the Gospel into Your Family

Today’s Gospel reading reminds us that Christ gave and continues to give the power to forgive sins to the Church through the Sacrament of Penance and Reconciliation. If your family was not able to celebrate this sacrament during the season of Lent, today—the Second Sunday of Easter and the Sunday of Divine Mercy—is a wonderful day to celebrate it. Many churches make the sacrament available on this special Sunday of the Easter season.

Discussion Starters

In place of discussion starter questions, invite family members to quiet themselves. Then ask them slowly to repeat Jesus’ words, “Peace be with you,” several times, aloud and together. Ask family members to think of those to whom they want to offer Christ’s gift of peace. They may hold those names quietly in their hearts or speak them aloud. After a few moments, say together, “Lord, make me an instrument of your peace.” Conclude by offering spontaneous prayers for peace in the world, in the Church, in your community, and in your family.

LOVE, MARRIAGE & FAMILY

God's Plan for Love and Sexuality - Part 2

Called to Love, to Communion

It is not good for the man to be alone. (Gn 2:18)

Love one another as I love you. (John 15:12)

God is love. He is the Blessed Trinity, a Communion of three Divine Persons—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit—continuously giving and receiving love, one to the other. God calls all people to communion with Him and with each other through the Church, the Body of Christ. We live out this call to communion in various ways whether as clergy, consecrated religious, married persons, or in the single state—in families, friendships, in the parish, in religious community, with colleagues at work, among fellow citizens, and indeed with the global community. A unique form of communion to which most people are called is found in marriage, the one-flesh communion of persons between husband and wife. “Marriage is the icon of God’s love for us” (Amoris Laetitia, no. 121).

God desires that each of us grow in holiness by giving and receiving love like him. Such love requires putting the human ego aside and first considering the needs of others before our own. As we pray in the Peace Prayer of St. Francis of Assisi, “it is in giving that we receive.”[1] We can only know our real selves when we give of ourselves to others (see Gaudium et spes, no. 24).[2]

With regard to human sexuality, the mutuality noted above comes into play as men and women seek to love each other. Each has different gifts to present to the other. Whether it is in friendship or marriage, forming authentic relationships with other people may be the most profound way that we enact our likeness to God.

Of all the “communions of persons” that people can create, Scripture tells us that marriage is the fundamentally unique relationship (see <http://www.usccb.org/issues-and-action/marriage-and-family/marriage/promotion-and-defense-of-marriage/church-documents-on-defense-of-marriage.cfm>; see <http://www.marriageuniqueforareason.org/>). “[Conjugal love] is an ‘affective union,’ spiritual and sacrificial, which combines the warmth of friendship and erotic passion, and endures long after emotions and passion subside” (Amoris Laetitia, no. 120). God willed that marriage be the unique communion of persons, indeed, a covenantal relationship, that is designed for the well-being of husband and wife (the “one-flesh” union) and the “begetting and educating of children.” (see Gaudium et spes, no. 50). Marriage, as willed by God, builds the family!

Chastity

The gift of human sexuality is precious with its powers of life and love, and it calls for an authentic and healthy integration in the person. This is the virtue of chastity. Chastity ensures “the successful integration of sexuality within the person” (CCC, no. 2337). It protects the inner unity (body, mind, and soul) of the person. It enables men and women to defend “love from the perils of selfishness and aggressiveness” (Familiaris consortio, no. 33).

Everyone is called to chastity. Chastity is necessary to the right living of one’s sexuality. It requires practice, or as the Catechism calls it, an “apprenticeship in self-mastery,” where a person learns the meaning of true freedom (see CCC, no. 2339). The chaste person is not governed by his or her emotions. Rather, the chaste person understands the meaning of sexual feelings and appropriate behaviors. Chaste self-possession brings true freedom and peace.

In marriage, the joy of love needs to be cultivated. When the search for pleasure becomes obsessive, it holds us in thrall and keeps us from experiencing other satisfactions. Joy, on the other hand, increases our pleasure and helps us find fulfillment in any number of things, even at those times of life when physical pleasure has ebbed. (Amoris Laetitia, no. 126)

With chastity we can avoid using others and abusing ourselves. We can live our sexuality according to God’s plan for our lives. Chastity reminds us of the value of the person and of the body. It helps us respect interpersonal boundaries as well as our own bodies. Chastity enables us to “love rightly” according to our state in life. “The chaste person maintains the integrity of the powers of life and love placed in him. This integrity ensures the unity of the person, it is opposed to any behavior that would impair it” (CCC, no. 2338).

[1] The Peace Prayer of St. Francis captures the spirit of God’s love:
Lord, make me an instrument of Your peace. Where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; where there is sadness, joy.
O, Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood as to understand; to be loved as to love; For it is in giving that we receive; it is in pardoning that we are pardoned; it is in dying that we are born again to eternal life.

[2] “This likeness ... reveals that man ... cannot fully find himself except through a sincere gift of himself” (GS, no. 24).

SUNDAY FUNNIES

At the pearly gates again, a taxi driver and a preacher are waiting in line. St. Peter consults his list and says to the taxi driver, "Take this silken robe and golden staff and enter the Kingdom of Heaven." St. Peter next greets the preacher saying, "Take this cotton robe and wooden staff and enter the Kingdom of Heaven." "Just a minute," says the preacher. "That man was a taxi driver, and he gets a silken robe and golden staff while I get a cotton robe and wooden staff. How can this be?" "Up here, we work by results," says St. Peter. "While you preached, people slept; while he drove, people prayed."
